The forgetfulness of servants is the bane of all housekeepers. A London merchant has servant who, although possessing many good qualities, was at first very forgetful. This fault was especially annoying at meal times, when something essential was sure to be lacking from the table, relates the New York Times.

One day the family were seated at the table and the bell was rung as usual. The girl hurried to the dining-room.

"Maria," said Herr B—, "just run and fetch the big stepladder down from the attic and bring it here."

Maria, who had been disturbed at her dinner, gave a grunt of dissatisfaction, but ran up the three flights of stairs to fetch down the ladder. In about five . Health Before Wealth.
